

THE ROUND

Stanley Kunitz

Light splashed this morning on the shell-pink anemones swaying on their tall stems; down blue-spiked veronica light flowed in rivulets over the humps of the honeybees; this morning I saw light kiss the silk of the roses in their second flowering, my late bloomers
flushed with their brandy.
A curious gladness shook me.

So I have shut the doors of my house, so I have trudged downstairs to my cell, so I am sitting in semi-dark hunched over my desk with nothing for a view to tempt me
but a bloated compost heap, steamy old stinkpile,
under my window;
and I pick my notebook up and I start to read aloud the still-wet words I scribbled on the blotted page:
"Light splashed . . ."

I can scarcely wait till tomorrow when a new life begins for me, as it does each day,
as it does each day.
